metals prices rose Tuesday as ongoing unrest in the Middle East stoked fears of oil supply disruptions that could dampen economic growth.

Gold and silver prices rose as investors parked their money in precious metals investments that are often used as hedges against political and economic instability. Precious metals fell earlier this year as investors started moving money back in the stock market, but the unpredictable global situation has made them attractive again.

"It's a haven," said George Gero, senior vice president for RBC Wealth Management in New York. "What's driving them into gold are instability fears, politically and economically."

Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke told Congress Tuesday that a prolonged rise in oil prices would hurt the U.S. economy, although he said runaway inflation is unlikely. Traders also see a possible government shutdown looming in Washington as Congress and President Obama disagree on budget issues.

Taken together, metals look like a better investment than stocks or even the dollar, Gero said. The demand for safety should keep gold prices between $1,400 and $1,450 an ounce for the near future, he said.

Gold for April delivery rose $21.30 to settle at $1,431. Silver for May delivery rose 60.7 cents to settle at $34.427 an ounce.

In other metals contracts, March copper added 1.25 cents to settle at $4.4905 a pound. June palladium gained $17.10 at $816.70 an ounce. April platinum rose $35.90 to $1,845.10 an ounce.

Oil prices, meanwhile, climbed as Iran clamped down on anti-government protesters while Libyan protesters expanded their control over the country. Oil prices surged 13 percent last week, peaking above $100 per barrel.

In Iran, pro-reform groups have clashed with the government, as the country's political crisis escalated. Iran exports about 2.5 million barrels of oil and natural gas liquids per day, about 3 percent of global demand.

Benchmark oil for April delivery rose $2.66 cents to settle at $99.68 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

In other Nymex trading, heating oil gained 8.46 cents to settle at $2.0235 per gallon, gasoline rose 9.07 cents to settle at $2.9834 per gallon and natural gas lost 16.4 cents to settle at $3.873 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Grains and beans were mixed. In May contracts, wheat fell 6.75 cents to settle at $8.1025 a bushel, corn gained 4.5 cents to settle at $7.35 a bushel and soybeans rose 10.5 cents to settle at $13.7525 a bushel.

be sent to Mr. James Morse at the above Frankfort address or e-mail a hearing will be announced. All relevant comments will be considered in issuing the proposed permit. U.S. EPA has up to 45 days following issuance of the proposed permit to submit comments. The status regarding EPA's 45-day review of this project
